SETUP:

1. Divide the players into three teams and note the teams on the right. Pay attention to balancing the bowlers and batters fairly between the teams.
 2. Conduct a three-way toss:
 1. Conduct a standard toss between teams A and B. Note the winner.
 2. Next, conduct a toss between the winner of the first toss and team C. The winning team chooses when to bat (first, second or third).
 3. Conduct a toss between the teams who lost the two tosses. The winner chooses when to bat from the remaining two options.
 4. The remaining team takes the unclaimed batting innings.
- You're now ready to play.

PLAY:

There are three innings. In each innings one team bats while the other two teams field together.

Batting team rules:

- Two members of the batting team bat first, with the remaining team members taking care of the umpiring and scoring. It's a good idea for the umpires to stay padded up to speed up transitions.
- If a batter is dismissed, they are replaced by one of the other players until all players have had a turn batting.
- When all players have batted and a wicket falls, the team member who was dismissed first bats again. It continues in this way until the end of the innings.

The batting innings is over after 20 overs or when the batting team loses 10 wickets.

Each team has a batting innings, and fields for the other two innings.

Fielding team rules:

- The two fielding teams field as a single unit.
- Bowlers can bowl up to 4 overs each in the innings (i.e. they can bowl another 4 overs in a subsequent innings).

In all other respects, use the standard Twenty20 rules for the game.

Optional match conditions

Includes byes. Boundaries and wickets count.
- Forced retirement at... 30 / 50
Can start new innings when wickets allow.
- Full team bowling
Rotation / 2 overs / 3 overs
